PAC Worldwide Senior Executive Named to COO Post

(SEATTLE, WA) – After an extensive search process that spanned the globe, PAC Worldwide has announced the appointment of Matthew Konyn as the company’s new Chief Operating Officer. Mr. Konyn assumes the executive management role after serving as Senior Vice President of Supply Chain at PAC.

He joined the Seattle-based company earlier this year after spending more than two decades in senior-level business operations and Supply Chain Management positions in the automotive industry.

Mr. Konyn’s management focus will remain on total integration of the company’s global supply chain, including its manufacturing operations. His priority will be leveraging PAC’s operational excellence in its plants to continue providing customers with products and services customized for their needs.

In making the announcement, PAC Worldwide President Steve Foster praised Mr. Konyn’s contributions over the past year as he immersed himself in the company’s business strategy as well as its culture.
